

Journey of a Survivor

The journey after leaving an abusive relationship may look different from person to person. However, navigating the steps to starting over often involve police, CPS, applying for victim services, counseling, safe shelter, housing, medical, employment, school, mental health services and much more.